Los Ayala

Coordinates: 21°01′27″N 105°17′12″W﻿ / ﻿

Los Ayala is a small beach town and fishing village located in the municipality of Compostela, in the Mexican state of Nayarit. It is one of the three towns that make the Jaltimba Bay, the other two being Rincón de Guayabitos and La Peñita de Jaltimba, which stretches from Punta Raza on the south to Playa Boca de Naranjo on the north.^[1] As of 2015, the population of Los Ayala is 316 inhabitants.^[2]

Situated at the foot of the Sierra de Vallejo mountain range, Los Ayala is the smallest and southernmost town in Jaltimba Bay. It is a quiet beach community with several small hotels, numerous family-style bungalows and a couple of trailer parks.^[3] The area is also known as a bird watching paradise where flocks of green parakeets, amiable pelicans, frigate birds, prancing egrets, inca doves, white doves, tropical king birds and the lone eagle can be seen.^[4]
